

Need extra money or a job with flexible hours?

If you are interested, the Federal Work-study Program is looking for students. Hourly wages start at $6.54 per hour and $7.00 per hour based on previous employment history as an FWS student/employee.

Who is eligible for the FWSP? Students must first complete and submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA application is available at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Once the NPC Financial Aid Office receives your processed FAFSA information and other required documents, your eligibility will be determined in the following order: Federal Pell Grant, SEOG or LEAP (limited funding available) grants and Federal Work-study.

If you are not eligible for the Federal Pell Grant, you may be eligible for the FWS program. Contact the Financial Aid Office for FWS eligibility.

Where are FWS jobs posted? FWS jobs, handbook and forms are available at www.npc.edu/student-services/carserv/fwsjobs.html.

How do I get started? Contact the NPC Financial Aid Office to check if you are eligible for the FWS Program. If you are eligible, you may select a FWS job and contact the FWS supervisor for an interview. If the FWS supervisor would like to hire you, the FWS supervisor may complete and submit the "Intent to Hire Form" to the NPC Financial Aid Office.

Do you need funding for child care, textbooks, etc?

Less than 50% of students attending NPC apply for available scholarships. NPC scholarships require you to submit a "Letter of Interest." A list of scholarships and Interest form are at www.npc.edu/student-services/finaid/scholarships.html.

TIP: When applying for any scholarships, you should review each requirement, follow all directions and apply before the deadline date.

Student News You Can Use from Northland Pioneer College

Vol. 2 No. 3

September 6 – September 19, 2006
